

What is the Advisory Panel?

The CRB Advisory Panel will convene to plan, research, and identify recommendations based on best practices, models, history, current trends, theories, standards, and practices of civilian oversight of law enforcement.

The Advisory Panel's work will inform, through recommendations, the internal development and implementation of a comprehensive, informative, and community-centered City of Annapolis Civilian Review Board.

● Community Stakeholders

Engages stakeholders in dialogue that firmly establishes community partnerships and helps create an environment in which police are responsive to community, and the community, in turn, views the police with legitimacy and respect.

● Capacity Building

Will provide training, information and resources for the establishment, development, education, and technical assistance needed for CRB guidance.

● Peer Learning

Panelists will work & learn collaboratively and in partnership with content experts and practitioners from across the U.S.

● Identify Best Practices

To learn what other oversight bodies are doing and identify what works. Each community is different and each must go through its own process to rebuild trust and strengthen the critical relationship between the public and the police, while supporting effective public safety.

Advisory Panel Members

Civilian Review Board

Angela Traynor

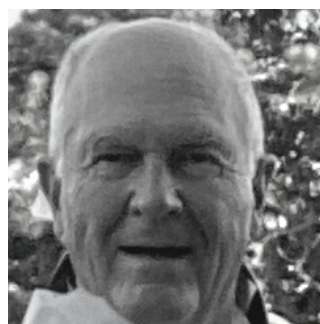

Phil Ateto

Tatiana J. Klein

Toni Strong Pratt

Charles A. Hurley

Harold Mo Lloyd

Scott MacMullan, Esq.

Kyree Stinson

Jesse Raudales

Ret. Sgt. Randy Williams

Monica Lindsey

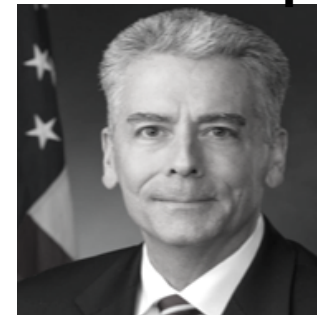

Judy Buddensick

James Spearman

Gabriela Roque

Frank J. Larkin

Justin Caldwell

Eric Lipsetts, Esq.

Rev. Marguerite Morris

Jerry Williams III, Esq.

Civilian
Review
Board

ADVISORY PANEL

Officer Robert Horne
APD
Re-entry Program

Sgt. Christopher Kintop
APD
Lead Steward UFCW